COUNTRY GIRLS FOR WIVES .- Young men in our cities engaged in business, with but small capital, or in positions with small salary, wish homes of their own and domestic happiness, but they think, and with reason, too, they cannot afford it. Such is the case. No young man trying to economize can afford to marry, at least, a young lady in the city. Her tastes and ideas are formed in a home of luxury, and to come down to housekeeping with but one servant, no carriage, and the many other inconveniences are enough to discourage her for life, and instead of the smiles a happy wife should wear are frowns of the darkest hue. But, young man, you can have a happy home, and a right, willing little woman if you will. The country is full of rosycheeked, healthy young ladies, to whom the home you could give would be a perfect paradise. The country girl would be as congenial a companion as the city belle; some of them are better educated, and their good common and healthy and fully as good looking. If the little airs and graces of the fashionable woman are any addition point them out, she will not be slow in acquiring them. Unlike her city sister, the country girl is not wholly engrossed within herself. Her thoughts and cares are for others taking care of the children, easing the burdens of the mother, adding comfort and sunshine to the household, she has plenty of time for playing the piano, fancy work, oil painting and reading, besides doing her own dressmaking and millinery work. Young men, take this advice, start out in the country this summer, court and marry a country girl. There are plenty of them; you can take your choice. Court her the same as the city lady, judging of her qualifications and if her tastes agree and are congenial with your own.—[Correspondent of the N. Y. Herald. ICE CREAM, SODA WATER, &c.
